Responsible Leadership in Times of Transformation –

The 8th International Conference on Sustainability & Responsibility

(14-16th of November 2018 in Cologne, Germany)

As an academic field, we have the unique opportunity to develop and improve our businesses and societies through changing the way leaders think about the economy. We invite you to join our global community of thinkers to:

Envision: responsible leadership as a driving force that help both businesses and society solve global challenges

Encourage: responsible businesses to be enablers for positive societal change and innovation

Empower: responsible transformation through an open space for knowledge transfer, collaborative innovation, and friendship to positively impact our societies.

This is more than just a conference. We are a global network – connecting academics, practitioners, artists, innovators and all kind of change makers, with the common goal of creating a more sustainable and socially responsible world.

We live in a complex, volatile world filled with uncertainty about the future. This calls for courageous and responsible leaders who will challenge the status quo and lead the transformation of business, politics, and society towards sustainable development. Effective leaders inspire, motivate and ignite people to take action, enabling them to change the world for the better.

Globalization and digitalization have forever changed the socio-political reality of our world, and we have to acknowledge that with such dramatic change, also comes with challenges. For these reasons, we must be careful with regard to how we enact the necessary change, which has arisen from these shifts. We need to understand not just the role of businesses in enacting change, but the role that international institutions, governments, and society, play in this change. Such a transformation must be much more than radical disruption, but rather a fundamental character shift. Of course, achieving such a drastic change in character will not be easy, and for that reason we need to leave our comfort zones!

Given our increasingly globalized world, our conference examines the topics of sustainability and responsibility from an international perspective. Together, we are able to develop future-oriented solutions, taking the sustainability debate beyond moralizing and promoting a holistic approach towards shaping our institutions. We bring together different perspectives on global issues from various countries, actors and generations on responsible leadership, to foster ideas, practices, which can be applied in a global context. We believe that it is not enough to provide future generations with the same opportunities; instead we want to create more opportunities for present and future generations!

We invite proposals for papers, panels, and workshops, or alternative forms of engagement on a wide range of topics related to responsible leadership. Additionally, we look forward to receiving proposals that focus on topics which affect all fields of the social sciences, not just business and economics.
