

WETLAND BOTANIST

Great Lakes Environmental Center, Inc. (GLEC), based in Traverse City, Michigan, is anticipating an expansion of our seasonal staff. We are seeking an experienced wetland botanist to assist the State of Michigan with implementation of the State's wetland monitoring program during the 2022 field season. This is a seasonal fixed-term field-based position beginning in late May/early June 2022 and continuing through September 2022. Work may continue beyond September 2022 if funding is available.

Physical Skill and Effort/Working Conditions: Ability to lift 50 pounds, ability to carry a backpack with 40 pounds of weight, ability to work in wilderness areas, ability to travel anywhere in Michigan. Field assignments often require long field days (> 10 hours), wading in water, sampling in hot and humid climates, and walking and carrying heavy field equipment for long distances.

Interested applicants should have strong field sampling experience and excellent Michigan wetland plant identification experience. A B.S. in a botany-related field is preferred, but not required. Experience with Michigan wetland plant identification, wetland delineation, EPA's National Wetland Condition Assessment, and/or the Michigan Rapid Assessment Method (MiRAM) is also preferred, but not required. Applicants must also have a valid state driver's license with no convictions or previous loss of licensing privileges within the past three years.

The successful applicant is not required to live in Traverse City. A vehicle and laptop will be provided, if necessary, to assist with working remotely. The successful applicant will be reimbursed for all approved travel related expenses, including lodging and meals. If a personal vehicle is used for travel to and from sampling locations, mileage will also be reimbursed.

Salary is commensurate with experience and education. Interested applicants should forward a cover letter and resume to:
