Brennan School of Business

The Norman and Ruth Carroll Endowed Chair in Business and Economics Position Description

DOMINICAN UNIVERSITY'S Brennan School of Business (BSB) announces a search for an outstanding international faculty and scholar to join the school to serve as The Norman and Ruth Carroll Endowed Chair in Business and Economics for one academic semester. This position was established with a philanthropic investment of $1.5 million, to build the academic profile and research capacity of the Brennan School of Business. It allows the school to recruit annually, for a one or two academic semesters, a recognized faculty member to collaborate with, and mentor, Brennan faculty in areas of scholarship consistent with the strategic priorities of the school. Brennan seeks to host outstanding international researchers from premier academic institutions, partner universities, AACSB accredited institutions, or Academy of International Business (AIB) members.

As a diverse, Catholic HSI institution, we center access, belonging, and equity-minded perspectives. We are seeking an individual who can demonstrate effective engagement in an environment where colleagues and students come from many backgrounds and identities, as well as someone who can demonstrate commitment to equitable and inclusive teaching and research practices.

Duties and Responsibilities

The primary purpose of The Norman and Ruth Carroll Endowed Chair in Business and Economics is to bring research expertise and scholarly recognition to the Brennan School of Business. During and beyond the Chair holder's on-campus residency, he/she will be expected to provide contributions from among the following, to be determined at the time of recruitment:

1. Collaborate on at least one major research project with a Brennan School of Business faculty member.
2. Share teaching expertise with Brennan's faculty members through the Dialogues on Teaching.
3. Share research expertise with Brennan's faculty members through the Dialogues on Research.
4. Prepare and deliver, in collaboration with a Brennan faculty member, a presentation of their joint research efforts at an academic conference.
5. Participate as a presenter in one of Brennan's outreach efforts to share his/her areas of research expertise with business and community leaders.
6. Submit for publication an article to a Peer Reviewed Journal (PRJ) with a Brennan faculty member.
7. When appropriate, the Chair may engage in teaching at the undergraduate or graduate level – whether as a guest lecturer or as the teacher-of-record in, for example, an intensive seminar-like course.

Required Qualifications

Successful applicants must have a terminal degree in Business or Economics. Preference in selecting the Chair holder will be given to faculty with teaching and research expertise in Economics. However, applicants with expertise in one of the following academic disciplines will also be considered and are encouraged to apply: Accounting, Entrepreneurship, Finance, International Business, Management, and Marketing.
